3/22/96: John Zillach called: Pit is 50' x 50' x 16' (deep), 200 cubic yards removed and remaining soils look clean, samples taken and awaiting results. Sheen on GW, but used pads and did not pick up much. Mayor and Fire Dept. were there on Thursday. Checked manholes, with city, and found no detectable gas- sewer lines are at 3' and water table is 16'-18' now. There are 4 GW monitoring wells at the Wapato Shell site across the street, which he will check. He did not have a groundwater flow direction for the Shell site, but is shooting elevations now. He thinks that the flow is to the south. Will put one drilled well on the Roadrunner site to the south of the pit and one in the pit when they refill the excavation (he does not think there is room for another one on site). There is a wrecking yard to the south, so they should be able to put more wells in, if they need to do so off site.

Zillach's office number is now 509-545-0136.
Roadrunner Deli number is 509-877-6202.

P.S. He mentioned that he might take the soils to the Toppenish Kelly Oil site for remediation and being those finished soils, already remediated, to fill in the excavation at the Roadrunner site. Told him that EPA needed final samples of the remediated Kelly Oil soils and they need to clear this with the Tribe (Jannine Jennings), first.

robert,

thanks for the roadrunner update. i'm not sure at all why i had never inspected that facility in the past! too many yakama usts!

can you explain why zillich/ruffener must clear the replacement of soils with the remediated reilly kelly oil soils with the tribe? do i have that right to begin with?

I told him to clear it with the Tribe because they have had problems with the other site and it is in the city limits. Don't know if they want a continuous land farm near a restaurant and other facilities, either (best to check, than give out surprises- they have a nasty habit of coming back). Actually, maybe someone should check with the city, too?
